

Voss Is Cited By Ag. Department For Excellent Job

Earl Voss, Soil Scientist with the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, has recently received a Certificate of Merit, plus a salary increase, from the Department of Agriculture in recognition of his high-quality work performance over the past several years. The award, granted to employees whose performance exceeds normal requirements with indications that such quality will be sustained, was announced by Kenneth E. Grant, State Conservationist for Indiana.

Earl's present duties include making and interpreting soil surveys in Putnam, Vermillion, Parke, Vigo, Clay and Owen counties. During the years 1960-1963, he completed 130,724 acres of new soils mapping and revised or revamped an additional 97,671 acres. During 1963, his production was the highest of all soil scientists in the State of Indiana.

His 1963 production was achieved in spite of dry weather and a change of work areas during the last six months of the year. He was transferred to his present headquarters in Greencastle in July, 1963. With his wife and two children, he resides in Greencastle Addition, RR 3, Greencastle.

Harold E. Schell, Area Conservationist and Earl's supervisor, says "Earl does an exceptional job of planning his work, working his plan, and then analyzing the results for self-improvement purposes. This has resulted in a properly balanced soil survey program that has provided both a pattern and a challenge for the overall survey program and other soil scientists in Indiana."

Six Yanks Die In Copter Crash

YOKOHAMA, Japan UPI — A U.S. Navy helicopter crashed, exploded and burned in a forest near Yokohama today, a Navy spokesman said all six American servicemen aboard were killed.

Their names were withheld until their families could be notified.

Japanese eyewitnesses told Yokohama firemen that the helicopter, a UH43B Seahawk, appeared to come apart in air. They estimated that it plummeted from an altitude of half a mile.

The Navy spokesman said the cause of the crash was being investigated.

O'Lessker Is Speaker At Democrat Dinner

Karl O'Lessker, Democratic candidate for Sixth District Congressman, said here Monday night that Rep. Richard Roudebush has "deserted the historic principles of the Republican Party."

Speaking at a dinner sponsored by the Putnam County O'Lessker for Congress Club, the Democratic congressional candidate said, "Roudebush wants people to believe he is faithful to the policies of Eisenhower, but when he so enthusiastically embraced Goldwater and Goldwaterism, he turned his back on 100 years of Republican tradition."

O'Lessker said that Goldwater and his supporters want to destroy "that vital partnership between government, business and labor that was an important factor in Lincoln's day, strengthened by Theodore Roosevelt, and maintained by Eisenhower."

"This partnership has been central to the domestic thinking of Democratic and Republican administrations for a century. O'Lessker pointed out, "and has brought America the highest wages and the highest profits the world has ever known. Now Goldwater and his friends want to destroy it."

O'Lessker also said that Roudebush supports a "reactionary foreign policy that reverses the gains toward peace made by Eisenhower, Kennedy, and Johnson, would lose the confidence of our NATO allies, and would strengthen our enemies in the eyes of the uncommitted nations."

Rotarians Hear Ernest Williams

Ernest Williams of Indiana State Chamber of Commerce gave a most thoughtful talk last Wednesday at Rotary on "The Indiana Citizen and the Coming General Assembly." Mr. Williams stated that because of the dictates of the United States Supreme Court the coming assembly is most important because it will probably be the last time it will have any geographical basis for its membership. A very few counties will control the Assembly. Because of this it is most important to let what you feel about bills as they come up for decision. We will get only a good government as we demand and work for. Every citizen must be informed and speak up and voice his opinions.

In keeping with this same theme, Fred Richie, a State Department Aid in Saigon, will address the Rotary Club this Wednesday about the recent events and the background of these events in Saigon as they affect us and the world. Many local citizens will remember Mr. Richie as he graduated from DePauw and later was on the faculty of this university before he joined the State Department.

Guest of Rotary last week were Mrs. Mary Ellen Goodhue of the Greencastle Chamber of Commerce and W. H. Couch of Kokomo.

A-Weapons Not An Issue: Ike

NEW YORK UPI — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said Monday he does not believe the use of nuclear weapons by the United States should be an issue in the presidential campaign.

"I don't think these are things we should be telling a potential enemy," he told a news conference. "Do you think the U. S. benefits by having the president tell everything he might do in a situation?" Eisenhower asked.

Asked directly if he thought nuclear weapons could be an issue in the campaign, Eisenhower replied:

"No, I don't. But it looks like it is. I don't think it's in the best interest of the country to take the details of how we will defend the United States and make them public."

When this hand was played, South won the first trick in dummy with the king of clubs and drew two rounds of trumps with the ace and king. When the trumps failed to break South led his other club and held his breath.

Fortunately enough, West had to follow suit. Declarer won in dummy with the ace of clubs and ruffed a club. He next cashed the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart in dummy, ruffed another low club, and duffed his last low heart with dummy's last trump.

But now dummy was reduced to three diamonds and a good club. Declarer couldn't cash the club because West still had a trump. And if declarer led a trump, he would have to give a diamond trick to West.

It was not a distinguished performance, and the only thing to be said for it is that West enjoyed it immensely.

ONE TRICK AHEAD

South's trouble was that he got one trick ahead of himself. After winning the second club trick with dummy's ace South must not immediately ruff a club.

Instead, South takes the ace of hearts and ruffs a heart. He ruffs his other low heart with dummy's last trump and returns to his hand by ruffing another low club.

This sets up dummy's last club and puts South in his own hand — where he wants to be. He draws the last trump, discarding a diamond from dummy and cashes the king of hearts to discard another diamond. Then dummy wins the last two tricks with the ace of diamonds and the good club.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

I don't approve of the mudslinging from either Party.

What has become of reason in politics. Where have analysis and synthesis hidden? What has become of the thoughtful study and the weighed decision?

If we really believe that the 1964 election issues are merely peace or war, social security or the absence of it, then we are well on the way to intellectual senility.

"Peace and Prosperity" just until after election day is a poor promise for all of us.

I fail to see the wonderful prosperity that L.B.J. speaks of constantly.

I have less income each year as I am a small farmer. I have to pay a much higher rate of federal and other taxes which has taken away from me most of the savings that I had and needed.

I don't accept any handouts from the government officials because I know it is wrong.

I don't like being overtaxed to help pay for the "handouts" for the greedy ones. It isn't fair.

This dreadful disease called "Greed" is sweeping the nation and it will bankrupt everyone in time.

Let's demand that the ones running this country quit wasting the taxpayers' hard earned dollars, work more and do less politicking.

I think it is time to turn back to God and pray that He will help us choose the right man to run this great country of ours.

Wants Ike In South Viet Nam

WASHINGTON UPI — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater pledges, if elected, to ask former President Dwight D. Eisenhower to go to South Viet Nam on a "critical mission" aimed at solving the crisis there.

The Republican presidential nominee made the promise in a statement Monday night, on the eve of resuming his campaign travels after a weekend of rest in Washington. He visits a three-county suburban area near Philadelphia today for his first campaign stop into Pennsylvania.

Returning to Washington this afternoon, Goldwater was scheduled to speak at the 1964 conference of United Press International editors and publishers.

In his statement Monday night, Goldwater said that if he becomes president he will ask Eisenhower "to head up a group of qualified experts to port back to me on the situation in Southeast Asia."

He said he hoped Eisenhower would be assisted by such "men of ability and experience" as former Rep. Walter H. Judd, R-Minn.; retired Gen. Mark W. Clark, now president of the Citadel Military College of Charleston, S. C. and former United Nations commander in Korea, and Adm. Arleigh A. Burdette, former chief of naval operations.

Goldwater's press secretary, Paul Wagner, said in response to a query that the nominee had not yet specifically discussed the idea with Eisenhower, although they had talked of the Viet Nam situation generally. Wagner said the idea took shape at a campaign strategy meeting in Goldwater's apartment Sunday.

Goldwater said: "I am convinced that only through a careful study by the best qualified experts this country has to offer can we reach the kind of hard conclusions that are needed to meet the situation in South Viet Nam."

Johnson Will Speak In Dixie

WASHINGTON UPI — President Johnson tests the political climate in the south today before heading West to visit 10 states on the longest trip of his campaign.

Johnson planned a bit of whistle-stopping in Alexandria, Va., and an evening speech at Raleigh, N. C., to bolster the vote-seeking efforts of his wife aboard her "Lady Bird Special" train enroute through Dixie.

The President arranged to ride with the First Lady from Washington's Union Station across the Potomac to nearby Alexandria on the first leg of her four-day tour.

They both were scheduled to address a breakfast - time Democratic rally in the city known as George Washington's hometown.

After this sendoff, the President faced a busy day at the White House on foreign and domestic matters. He left some time, however, to visit with "Scientists for Johnson" and have lunch with "Businessmen for Johnson."

He flies to Raleigh tonight to rejoin Mrs. Johnson after her first day of whistle stop appearances on his behalf. Johnson is scheduled to speak in the Reynolds Coliseum on the Raleigh campus of the University of North Carolina.

Afterward the First Lady and the President intend to follow separate paths in politicking across the country this week.

Johnson plans to return to Washington late this evening. He leaves Wednesday morning on a six-day tour through the Midwest, the South and Far West. Mrs. Johnson's train is bound for New Orleans Friday after stops in Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi.

The President Wednesday added Peoria and Springfield, Ill., and Nashville, Tenn., to a campaign journey which will take him into states where Democratic victories are still doubtful.

Lady Bird Says She Loves South

ABOARD THE LADY BIRD SPECIAL UPI — Lady Bird Johnson expressed her love for the South today and said she was certain it would rise "to the hard duty" of assuring equal and constitutional rights to all Americans.

The First Lady referred to the civil rights issue in a speech prepared for a train-side rally at Alexandria, Va., first stop on her four-day, 1,682 mile whistlestop tour of eight southern states.

Mrs. Johnson, standing on the rear platform of the train with President Johnson by her side, said:

"The law to assure equal rights passed by Congress last July with three-fourths of the Republicans joining two-thirds of the Democrats has been received by the South for the most part in a way that is a great credit to local leadership—the mayors and ministers, white merchants and Negro leaders, to all the Mr and Mrs. John Citizens who live in our communities."

"This convinces me of something I have always believed that there is, in the Southland, more love than hate."

"I think we all understand that the hard duty of assuring equal and constitutional rights to all Americans falls not only on the President of the United States, but upon all who love this land. I am sure we will rise to that duty."

The Texas-born First Lady spoke of the "strain in the South from national life" and said she shared the "concern that has come with this strain."

"I share the irritation when unthinking people make snide jokes about 'cornpone' and 'red necks' as if the history and tradition of our region could be dismissed with ridicule," she said.

"For the good of the country," she said, "we must search for the ties that bind us together but not settle for the tensions that tend to divide us."

"We are a nation of laws, not men, and our greatness is our ability to adjust to the national consensus."

On The Barriers Of Illness

THE WORLD of the sick is a special one that revolves around them and their immediate destiny.

In the beginning, patients concentrate their anxiety on the disease itself. Many people have lived for many years, afraid of cancer, tuberculosis and heart disease. This fear reaches a peak during the time of illness, even relatively unimportant illness.

Dr. Coleman

Intimately connected with bodily disease come the emotional tensions on such things as jobs, social life and the economic security of the patient.

Long-standing chronic bodily or emotional sickness makes the patient's world shrink smaller and smaller. He finds himself in a constant state of anxiety.

Interests Disappear

As his world becomes narrower, his interests slowly disappear. One by one, they seem to be discarded, until finally there is a pinpoint concentration of his whole life on his illness.

Often, he deliberately loses contact with his friends and even separates himself from his immediate family. Time hangs heavily on the shoulders of a chronic invalid. Time becomes a particular burden when there is only concentration on meal-time, bowel time, temperature time and medication time.

Activities Decrease

As the sickness continues, his limited activity becomes more marked and blots out all of the surrounding factors normally considered a part of the cycle of living.

The many joys of living, the many functions of the human body that are normally taken for granted, are completely forgotten during this period of preoccupation with illness.

Sometimes the sick person feels that everyone who surrounds him has an obligation to concentrate, too, on his illness.

Emotional Support Tips

How can the family, living with the chronically sick person, offer him the greatest emotional support, in addition to supplying his physical needs?

1) Be patient, without being oversolicitous.

2) If his anxiety is out of proportion to the severity of his illness, help him to seek the professional guidance that will give him greater reassurance and comfort. Spiritual and religious guidance can often give excellent additional support to that offered by the physician.

3) Urge him to take some active part in his personal and family affairs in order to interrupt the constant concentration on his own illness.

Outline Program

4) The family physician has perhaps the keenest insight into the emotional needs of his patients. Often a program can be outlined by him that will give the maximum benefit to the patient without undermining the happiness of an entire family. The patient, too, will benefit by the knowledge that he and his illness are not an overwhelming burden to those on whom he must depend.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Featuring fresh fruit, always a perfect ending to a meal, this compote includes orange sections, pear halves and a subtly spiced sauce made with 7-Up, apricot jam and lemon juice. This easy sauce cooks in moments. Try it with other fruit combinations, too—the sparkling goodness of 7-Up brings out the best in fruit flavor.

Top the dessert compote with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream, a sprinkle of cinnamon, and it's ready to serve.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Doctor, I'd Like To Know—

A MAN in our community has just had a very severe heart attack at the age of 46.

He was an enthusiastic advocate of vigorous exercise. He played handball every day and lifted weights. He induced my husband to do the same thing in the belief that it "gave extra blood supply to the heart," as well as preventing a heart attack.

Dr. Coleman

I am confused and worried because my husband still does exercise to exhaustion. What is today's thinking about exercise?

Mrs. S. F. W., Connecticut
Dear Mrs. W.: Moderation has been, and still is, the basis for all healthy exercise.

Dr. Paul D. White, internationally renowned heart doctor, advocates exercise, but in moderation. He suggests that riding a bicycle slowly, and without strenuous intensity, is exceedingly beneficial to the maintenance of healthy "tone" of all the muscles of the body. The heart, a most vital muscle, benefits, too.

Unfortunately, some people become almost fanatical in their overenthusiasm. Often these people, especially above the age of 35, compete ardently with younger athletes and do themselves more harm than good. In reality, they are only competing with themselves, refusing to admit the limitations imposed by middle age.

Your own family physician is an excellent guide to the amount of stress and strain that exercise should impose on each individual.

All exercise, at any age,

Contracts Now On Plant Level

DETROIT UPI — The United Auto Workers and General Motors, sought today to clean up plant-level contracts at 130 bargaining units and end a 12-day strike by more than a quarter million workers.

GM and the UAW Monday agreed to a new three-year national contract that followed the pattern set last month in agreements the union won from Chrysler and Ford.

The contracts included earlier retirement at age 60 with pensions up to $400 a month, longer vacations, pay increases and many other items.

President Johnson said the should have exhilaration as its objective, without ever producing fatigue or exhaustion.

What is Erysipelas? How does one get it and are there any permanent aftereffects?

Mr. A. G., Ohio
Dear Mr. G.: Erysipelas is a severe infection of the skin which is characterized by sharply outlined areas of redness and swelling. Fever and general body ache are also associated with it.

It is caused by a form of the bacteria streptococcus which enters the skin when it is broken by abrasive injury.

When untreated, there is always a possibility of complications. Most often, the disease leaves no permanent damage.

Erysipelas once was a disease of severe importance. Since the era of antibiotics and sulfa, the disease is readily cured with large doses of these drugs.

Some students in my hygiene class in high school refer to leprosy as a venereal disease, almost like syphilis. Is this correct?

Miss R. V.
Dear Miss V.: This is absolutely false. Leprosy is an infectious disease caused by a germ closely related to tuberculosis. Leprosy, now often called Hansen's disease, is transmitted from person to person. It definitely is not a venereal disease and must not carry any social shame or stigma.

While Dr. Coleman cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

settlement was "generous," but added he does not expect it to set a pattern for other industries with lower profits.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther and GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton both hoped that the agreement on the national level would speed up local negotiations around the country.

Reuther said the calling in the national agreement clause for a so-called wage inequity fund immediately would eliminate about 2,400 local demands. Prior to the national agreement, GM and the union had just under 16,000 local demands to clear away before labor peace could be restored at the world's biggest manufacturer.

Leonard Woodcock, UAW vice president and head of the union's GM department, said he was hopeful the local contracts could be written within a week. Earl R. Bramblett, GM labor relations director, said "it could be done in a week . . . we agree that the psychology of the local bargaining is improved when the background of the national settlement has been written in Detroit."

to Siberia.

A British Embassy spokesman said a reply was promised after an investigation of the incident, which involved three Americans and one Briton. But in the past, the Soviets have ignored such protests.

The incident was the seventh known time that Soviet authorities have interfered with or mistreated Western military attaches since 1963, it occurred last month but was not disclosed until Monday.

The Americans involved were Col. George A. Aubrey of Annapolis, Md., Army attaché at the embassy here; Lt. Col. Karl R. Liewer of Osmond, Neb., assistant Army attaché, and Maj. James F. Smith of Meers, Okla., assistant Air attaché. The Briton traveling with them was Lt. Cmdr. Nigel N. Laville, assistant naval attaché at the British Embassy.

Case Rests With Supreme Court

WASHINGTON UPI — The first test of the 1964 civil rights law rested with the Supreme Court today following arguments on the right of Congress to gear the statute to interstate commerce.

An Atlanta motel and a Birmingham restaurant started the lawsuits which brought twin cases to the high court for decision.

Because the parties in the Birmingham case have 10 days to file additional briefs, no ruling can be expected sooner. But the court is expected to act with promptness so that the government can be guided in carrying out the anti-discrimination provisions.

Two decision Mondays, Oct. 19 and 26 occur before the national elections on Nov. 3.

Only the controversial public accommodations section — or Title II of the civil rights law — was involved. This is the provision requiring motels and certain restaurants to serve Negroes.

Queen Arrives For Canada Visit

CHARLOTTETOWN, Prince Edward Island UPI — Queen Elizabeth, who appears ready to brush aside with charm threats from Quebec separatist extremists, today had another danger to her Canadian tour removed—by the weather man. The Queen, who makes her first public appearance in this island capital today, got the good word from the Maritime Weather Office that Hurricane Hilda will not strike here in any force.

A special telegram was sent to the royal yacht Britannia late Monday night informing the Queen the hurricane-turned-tropical-storm, once expected to bring heavy rain and winds of 60 miles an hour to the island, had blown out to sea.

The storm, the weatherman says, will be 120 miles out at sea and Charlottetown will now receive only light showers this evening and light winds.

The Queen arrived Monday and almost immediately established an unexpected air of relaxed informality that melted the edge of the most massive security arrangements in Canadian history.

Both the Queen and Prince Philip, dressed in an ordinary business suit, were almost casual and had a smile—and in the case of Philip a joke too—for everyone they met. There was no sign from the 38-year-old monarch that she was beginning what has been called the most dangerous tour of her 12-year reign.

But also begun—behind the scenes—were the strictest security measures ever witnessed on a Canadian royal tour.

The 1965 Ford is the most-changed in the 15-year history of Ford Division. The traditional, round Ford taillight is replaced by a modernistic hexagonal shape in keeping with the crisp, elegant look of the new Ford. Luxury styling is combined with a luxury ride described as so smooth and so quiet the heater and air conditioner fans had to be moved into the engine compartment because their low-toned whirr was distracting. A luxurious new Ford Galaxie 500 LTD series (top) features an interior of quality and style previously obtainable only in higher-priced cars. Five separate and distinct roof lines, including the Ford Galaxie 500/XL 2-door Hardtop (bottom), give greater distinctiveness to each of the 17 models than ever before.

The complete line of 1965 Fords — two-and-four-door hardtops, sedans, convertibles and station wagons — will be introduced in Ford dealer showrooms on Friday, September 25.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS ISSUE | THINK ELECTION RESULTS
FOGS CONSERVATISM TEST | NOT A TRUE BAROMETER

By HENRY CATHCART
Central Press Washington Writer

WASHINGTON—Some political theoreticians are coming to the belief that regardless of the outcome, the election results in the Johnson-Goldwater contest will not truly reflect the liberal-conservative split in the United States.

To these individuals, the prominence of the Civil Rights issue has so clouded voters' preferences as to make the outcome meaningless from the standpoint of determining whether the conservative movement will be irreparably hurt.

True, a large part of Goldwater's strength throughout the country comes from conservative-oriented individuals who are seeking some answer to the federal government's role other than continuous growth.

In any national election, assessing the size of this vote would have been difficult because of the inevitable injection of numerous local, state and regional factors. However, political scientists and others would have had a rough idea, anyway, of the basic strength of the conservative movement.

As things stand, they believe that individuals who otherwise might lean to the liberal side of the issues will vote for Goldwater because of their convictions on the racial issue, and that some otherwise conservative voters may lean toward Johnson for the same reason. Such a cross-over will be measurable.

If the election outcome approximates current showings of national polls, it will be a serious—perhaps mortal—blow to the conservative movement, the very thing that Goldwater feared before he made up his mind to seek the presidential nomination.

Whether conservatives will be able to place such a resounding defeat at the doors of the racial issue where it most likely will belong, remains to be seen. In any event, it appears impossible now that the election will provide the true "test" of conservative strength that was hoped for both by adherents and opponents.

● CHILLING STORY—A chilling story is circulating in Washington diplomatic circles concerning Greek Orthodox Archbishop Makarios, President of Cyprus.

According to the tale, a high United States diplomat who recently conferred with him, got bored as he listened to the archbishop's lengthy monologue on his difficulties, sufferings, extremely hard work and lack of appreciation.

Makarios topped his long-winded talk by the observation, meant to startle his visitor, that his dilemma was whether to conduct himself in such a way that he would be assassinated by the Turks or by the Greeks.

"Your Beatitude," the American is said to have replied wearily, "I suggest this is your problem, not ours."

● PHOTOGENIC TIE—Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, late for a Democrat congressional picture-taking session with President Johnson, was told by his secretary that the light tie he was wearing just wouldn't do.

In desperation, Gallagher's eyes lighted on the chauffeur for Rep. Charles Halleck, the House Republican leader. The chauffeur was wearing a dark tie, photographically perfect for the occasion. Gallagher explained his problem and the chauffeur, in a magnanimous display of bi-partisanship, exchanged ties with him on the spot.

After the picture-taking was over, Gallagher ran into a number of his colleagues who unstintingly complimented him on his fine looking cravat. Gallagher is seriously considering letting that Republican chauffeur pick out all his ties.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK
The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 463 George W. Custer's arbitrarily hanging of Mosby troopers at Front Royal, Va., for which John Mosby exacted equally atrocious retaliation (as told in No. 462), had its duplicates on both sides. Still the contending forces generally respected rules or conventions of international law governing warfare.

The white flag was respected for arrangement of orderly truces for humane purposes. Though U. S. Grant stood strongly against exchange of prisoners after he became the commanding general of the Union forces, and thus condemned both Union and Rebel captives to misery for long periods, he permitted truces during his bloody Virginia campaign in 1864 for removal of helplessly wounded and burial of dead.

Sentinels on picket lines and small groups of soldiers often arranged informal exchanges of amenities. It is related in Dr. Francis A. Lord's engrossing documentary chronicle, "They Fought for the Union" (pub. by Stackpole Co.), that in the Virginia campaign, a squad of Federals sent on scout got lost in the Dismal Swamp. While sloshing through misty underbrush, they came upon Confederate scouts who were in a similar predicament. Challenged, the Federals admitted they were simply trying to find a way out of "this d— swamp."

A Confederate spokesman proposed, "If you'uns will show we'uns out, we'uns will show you'uns out." There was an armistice till the combined groups had reached dry ground, exchanged news, and swapped luxuries for necessities.

After Grant took the Weldon R. R. and advanced on the north side of the James to within seven miles of Richmond, the last week of September 1864, there was a lull in fighting. Pvt. C. R. Cox wrote home of walking the picket line and swapping with a "Johnny Reb" picket. From a Richmond Enquirer, obtained in trade for a Baltimore American, he learned how close he was to the Rebel capital. —CLARK KINNAIRD [←] Wartime sketch of Confederate officer who had entered Union lines under flag of truce being returned to his horse and escort after having been led in a blindfold to Union conferees.

300,000 DEATHS—Former SS Gen. Karl Wolff (above) faces a sentence of 15 years in prison from a Munich, West Germany, court which convicted him, as Heinrich Himmler's adjutant, of "full knowledge of Nazi plans to exterminate Europe's 11,000,000 Jews" and complicity in execution of 300,000 of them.

What's Blue Cross been doing the past 20 years?
1964

Indiana Blue Cross was founded 20 years ago this fall. What has it been doing? What are its many accomplishments? What are its objectives? This 20th Anniversary report brings you the answers.

What's our purpose? Blue Cross was founded in 1944 by the Indiana Hospital Association as a community service organization. We operate under the Insurance laws of the State of Indiana as a mutual insurance company. Our purpose is to provide a method to pre-pay the cost of necessary hospital care for all the people of Indiana.

What's our goal? The Blue Cross objective is to provide the broadest possible benefits at the lowest possible cost to every citizen of Indiana. This is to be done regardless of a person's age, condition of health or employment status.

How we're different The only business of Blue Cross Hospital Service is to provide prepaid health care financing. We are governed by the strict standards of the American Hospital Association—we have no stockholders, pay no sales commissions, and all money paid in by members (except minimum administrative cost) is available to pay necessary health care expenses.

How much for your dollar? Blue Cross keeps less than five cents out of each dollar for all operating costs. The remaining 95 cents is available for members' hospital bills. This low operating cost—unmatched by any comparable business firm—means that in the health care field Blue Cross members get the maximum amount of benefit from each dollar.

How we've grown Since 1944, Blue Cross has grown to nearly 1,600,000 members, including workers in 10,000 Hoosier firms. One person out of every three in Indiana is a Blue Cross member, making us the largest health care plan in the state. Throughout the United States, 60,000,000 persons are members, with 5,000,000 of these being over age 65.

What we've contributed In 20 short years, Indiana Blue Cross has paid out a half billion dollars for the hospital care of its members. At the current rate of payment ($5,500,000 per month), we will reach the one billion dollar mark in the next few years. Incidentally, many Hoosier hospitals receive as much as one half of their income in the form of weekly payment from Blue Cross for services provided to our members during that period. We have continuously worked with hospitals and doctors to be sure that today—in an age of medical miracles and costly advancements—you receive the best health care at the lowest price possible.

What Blue Cross offers employees, employers To employees, Blue Cross means peace of mind about hospital bills... it means automatic acceptance at the hospital door anywhere in the nation... no red tape, no claims to file, no waiting to be reimbursed. To employers, Blue Cross means providing the kind of consumer-designed benefits that employees want and need... it means less paperwork for the employer, no adjusting of employee claims, no check-writing or difficult "gray area" management decisions. Blue Cross handles everything with the hospital—just as Blue Shield, our companion plan for surgical-medical care founded in 1946, handles things directly with physicians.

What makes us happy Each year, we receive thousands of "thank you" notes from members for the hospital-medical services they've received. What makes us happy is that a very great number of them say one phrase, over and over again, about Blue Cross-Blue Shield: "I don't know what we would have done without it."

Ball State Fullback Is Leading Hoosier Scorer

INDIANAPOLIS UPI — Ball State fullback Dave Reeves clung to his 4-point lead in the race for the Indiana college football individual scoring championship today.

Reeves scored once and kicked an extra point in the Cardinals' 23-20 victory at De Pauw last Saturday, giving him 34 points on 5 touchdowns and 4 conversions.

Earlham fullback Doug Siebert moved into the runnerup spot with 30 points. He scored both Quaker touchdowns in a 14-7 victory at Principia.

Evansville's Bob Glazer remained third with 26 points on 4 touchdowns and a 2-point conversion.

Bob Downham, whose Butler team has yet to score a victory, was tied for fourth place with Merv Rettemund of Ball State with 25 points. Downham has 3 touchdowns and 7 conversions while Rettemund has 4 touchdowns and 1 conversion.

Four others were tied for sixth place with 24 points each: Bob Griese of Purdue, George Hoge of Franklin, Pat Tuttle of Indiana State, and Paul Warner of Taylor.

Top scorer last Saturday was Evansville junior fullback Matt Hatcher, who racked up three touchdowns in a 42-0 rout of St. Joseph's.

Players' Meeting Began Monday

NEW YORK UPI — The 1964 baseball season ended Sunday for 18 of the 20 major league clubs, but plans for next season began Monday with a meeting of player representatives from 19 of the 20 teams.

The representatives met with their two advisers, Judge Robert Cannon of Milwaukee and Frank Scott of New York, to discuss general grievances discussed concerned field and clubhouse conditions at different ball parks which Judge Cannon believes can be taken care of by next season.

The two major league also were asked to submit preliminary schedules for 1965 for the representatives to consider prior to their next meeting in December.

Scott, Lipscomb Win At Lebanon

Tied for runnerup honors with 67s were teams consisting of Jack McMullen of Kokomo and Mal Mcullen of Carmel and Don Street of Muncie and Tom Miller of Marion.

In Top 10

NEW YORK UPI — The Kentucky Wildcats have clawed their way back into the national college football rankings after a 13-year struggle.

Gene Mauch Has 2-Year Contract

PHILADELPHIA UPI — Manager Gene Mauch of the Philadelphia Phillies had a new two-year contract with a raise today despite the 10-game late-season skid that cost the club the National League pennant.

Mauch blamed himself, "not the players," for the tumble from a 6½ game lead to a tie for second place with the Cincinnati Reds at season's end.

His old contract had a year to go when club President Robert R. M. Carpenter tore it up because "I think he's done a fine job."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Forward Passes To Health

THE NEXT few months will find the air filled with flying footballs, as the brisk fall season highlights this national sport.

There is no need for the football field, in high school or college, to be the unhappy scene of fractures, broken noses, lost teeth and varied other injuries.

Protective equipment can make football virtually free of danger areas. Critical surveys of these danger areas by coaches, educators and parents indicate clearly that the injurious consequences of football can be reduced to a minimum.

Follow Safety Rules
This exhilarating, competitive body contact sport can be free of hazards if some fundamental rules of safety are conscientiously followed.

A preliminary medical examination is absolutely essential before embarking on a program of conditioning. Tetanus booster shots are excellent as a precaution against the scrapes and field burns that are inevitable in this sport.

Makeshift, ill-fitting equipment are avoidable hazards. For safety equipment for football has been developed to a fine art.

Protective Equipment
Helmets are available with nose and jaw protectors that can withstand the pressures of the hard impact of the game. Rubber pads for the shoulders and the pelvis add safety without affecting the speed or the fun of the game.

This safety rule must never be departed from. All safeguards must be worn in training and practice sessions as well as in the games themselves.

(© 1964, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Every body-contact sport has some inherent dangers. Even with the most carefully inspected precautions accidents do occur. It is imperative that all accidents—like sprains, strains and soft tissue injury—be reported immediately.

Sometimes football players in high schools and colleges are so enveloped in the spirit of sportsmanship that they refuse to admit their injuries for fear of being taken out of the game. Coaches must teach them to report injuries immediately.

Seek Early Treatment
They can be impressed by the fact that professional football players are remarkably free from long-term disabilities because they seek medical attention early.

The player himself must not be the judge of the seriousness of his injury. All bruises should be reported. Even a relatively unimportant injury can make the player a greater candidate for further severe injuries.

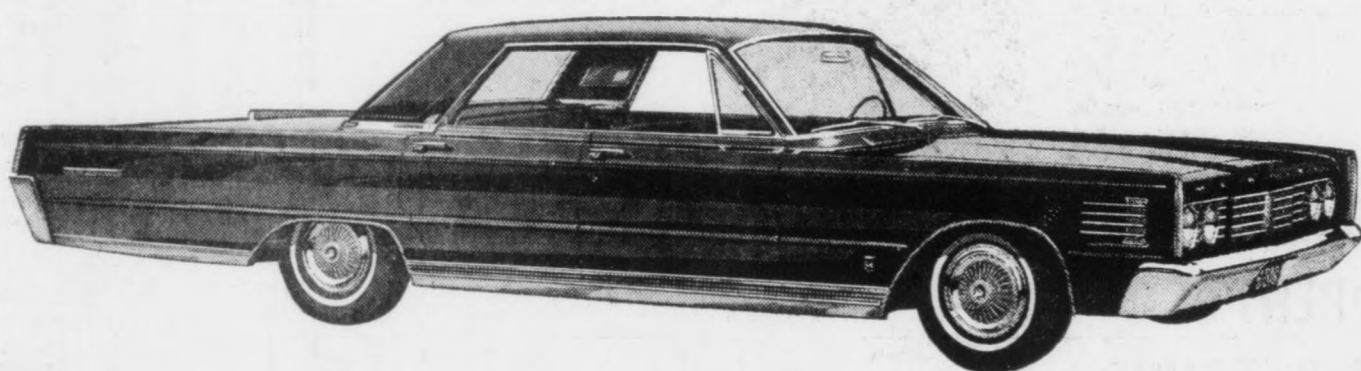

A Stimulating Sport
The value of this sport is undeniable. It is wholesome, stimulating and competitive. Unless there is a specific medical reason for non-participation, there is no reason why any healthy boy should be deprived of its benefits.

Pressures should not be exerted by the students or the family to reconsider any physical disqualification suggested by a doctor.

Safety advances, when strictly adhered to, can bring gratification to everyone who plays football.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported everywhere are known to doctors everywhere. Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Humphrey In St. Louis Talk

ST. LOUIS UPI — Democratic vice presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey promised today that a Johnson-Humphrey administration would never be indifferent to the plight of the needy.

Humphrey made the statement in a speech prepared for delivery before the National Conference of Catholic Charities in St. Louis. His appearance at the meeting touched off some criticism among conference participants.

Charles S. Lamy, president of St. Louis Catholic Charities, said the Minnesota senator's appearance "puts the conference in the position of being used as a political platform."

But Msgr. Raymond J. Gallagher of Washington, D. C., secretary of the National Conference, said Humphrey was invited "because he had just released a book on poverty in which he took some original approaches to this problem."

FOR SALE: House trailer, good condition, 3 rooms and bath, new heater and water heater, completely furnished. Call OL 3-5555 Or OL 3-6335. 6-3p.

Writes Of Trip Back To Florida

Dear Friends:

In case you haven't heard, we are home again in Florida. We left Indianapolis the morning of September 9th, by noon next day we were meeting wind and rain west of Tallahassee, Fla., (the forerunner of Hurricane Dora). We drove until 4 p. m. then stopped at Perry, Florida for the night. The next morning it was barely sprinkling when we left the motel but soon the rain and wind began and it was miserable driving all the way through Ocala, Florida. We got to one house a little past noon and the rain had stopped an hour or so before. However, before we could get the car unloaded two "quicks" showers came.

Everything was so green, the trees were beautiful. Even yet there's no sign of autumn here. Both hurricanes, Cleo and Dora, did not come inland through here but there was much rainfall and it was badly needed so no one complained (much) of all the dark, damp days we had.

Our vacation was one of the nicest we ever had. The only flaw I missed was seeing a lot of friends that I had hoped to get to see. And the three other couples (who like us are permanent residents of Indiana) and were vacationing in Florida the same time we were, had same complaint not nearly enough time to go to see every one they wanted to see. The Florida couples were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Breedlove, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Newgent and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neier and of course Clifford and I. We attended the picnic at Robe-Ann Park in Greencastle on Labor Day and to me, seeing and iting with all who came (there were over sixty present) was one of the brightest spots of our vacation.

In a day or so after the picnic all four couples started their trip homeward. The Breedloves left South Port, Indiana and drove across to Columbia, South Carolina to visit with their daughter, Jo Ellen and her husband, John Bartley and their children. Before returning to Sebring they helped Glenn Bartley celebrate his 13th birthday.

The Newcents went up into Canada — across into New York state — down to the World's Fair then on down East Coast home.

The Neiers were most fortunate of all of us for they were chauffeured home by their daughter, Pauline, and her husband, Milbert Ratcliff of Crawfordsville, Indiana. The men were in the Neier's car and women were in Ratcliff's car, and the latter stopped over in Atlanta, Georgia to see Mary Hooper, Mrs. Neier's granddaughter who is an Airline hostess.

Another Florida couple, Paul and Delsye McGill went up to Michigan in August and by now should be in Russellville, Indiana area finishing their vacation before starting on home.

The day we arrived home, Fred and Frances Ramsey left for Indiana on short trip so we missed seeing them. We have seen Carl and Florence Ferand though and he is better—has driven his car to Sebring a few times lately.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brattain have spent a lot of their time resting since their visit to Indiana earlier in the summer. Helen Robbins, Clifford's sister, really made a wonderful comeback after having surgery in July. She looks good and says she feels fine.

Guess Thurlow and Mae Garver are back home in Sebring after visiting in Indiana this summer.

Dorothy and Joe Roff are redecorating a home on Lakeview Drive in Sebring (which they recently purchased) prior to the time they can get moved.

Zella and Clarence Etelson didn't go on any trip this summer, but they sure made everyone else happy by keeping the lawns mowed while all were in Indiana vacationing.

Not all the visiting was done in Indiana though, for Mr. and Mrs. Roy Livesay of Greencastle came to Sebring to see Pat and Max Newgent and family. Pat is their daughter.

While at Bartow, Florida, the Dale Newgent family was enjoying having Julia's mother, Mrs. Dewey Stultz, and Julia's brother, Mr. and Mrs. George Stultz and others visiting them.

Probably no vacation is ever made up of complete happiness. Most of them are interspersed with bits of sadness. I know mine was. Attending a burial service, hearing about the death of a dear friend's husband, going to the cemetery and pausing a few moments by the graves of loved ones gone before. These are not happy moments but they do have their place in our lives. Yes, and the good-byes are not easy either, when you are ready to depart, but all in all the memories I brought home are precious ones.

So until we meet again I remain as ever—

Your friend
 Lillie Reeves
